TO MISS ***

As pedlars, to allure the passers by,
Display their goods to catch the wand'ring eye;
So you, mistaken maid lay ope' your breast,
And think that sight will recommend the rest.
But let it, prithee, henceforth be conceal'd,
For, charms like yours tempt least, when most reveal'd. T. T.

From the Connecticut Courant.

THE BRIEF REMARKER.

The love of power is as natural as to breathe. It shows itself in the first dawn of reason. How soon the infant begins to struggle to have his will and way! Ere he can speak or walk, in the tone of his cry and in his visage you may plainly read the stout words, I will and I wont. With impotent violence he squirms in his mother's arms, in order to command the utmost of her attentions. The oftener he gains his point, with the more resolute boisterousness does he proceed to assert his claims to her submission, and to the devotion of all her time and faculties to the service of his single self.

Having brought under him his nursing mother, no sooner is he able to run about upon his legs than he strives to extend his dominion. He exacts of the other children, and of all about him, an implicit compliance with his will. When opposed or thwarted, he regards it as downright rebellion against his rightful authority: accordingly he swells with rage, which he deals out by blows, or vents off in harsh and grating music.

Moreover, among the earliest of his covetings is that of property. Scarcely any thing is more common than for little children to ask, with peculiar earnestness, may we have this for our own? Nor are they willing to take up satisfied with any thing short of such a covenant. And why is it, that, not content with the mere use of the thing, they are so fain to have it as their own? It is because property is power.—One has exclusive power over that which is exclusively one's own. Of this matter of fact, the child of four, seems almost as sensible as the man of forty; and hence it is, I conceive, that our appetite for property—which is but another name for power—begins even in infancy, and enlarges as our years encrease. So true is it, that the passion for power is the ruling passion in human nature.

A question, then arises here, as to the bearing that early education and discipline should have on the predominant passion or principle under consideration:—a question of vast importance, which however, I could but barely touch now, even were I better able to do it justice.

In weeding a garden we take great care, lest with the weeds, we root up also some precious plant. In like manner should we endeavour to weed as it were the faults out of the minds of our children; looking diligently that we neither spoil nor mar that which the Eternal Wisdom has planted in them, or any part of the natural constitution of their frame. If, then, the love of power be a part of the radical constitution of man, the proper method of education is not to eradicate, but, to temper and curb it.

This species of discipline should be begun at a very early age, and managed with a firm but prudent hand. It is a task which, for the most part, devoles chiefly upon the mother. As soon as her infant offspring evidently appears to set up a resolution for the mastery, she has no alternative but either conquer or submit: for there is no such thing as balancing or dividing the power betwixt them. If she submit for the first time, it prepares the way for a second defeat, and indeed for an endless series of submission; as the child, in such a case, constantly becomes more refractory and usurping, and she more tame, yielding and slavish. Thus she nurses up, not so much a son as an imperious master. But provided the mother begins betimes and manages the matter with discretion, she may subdue the infant to her authority, and that without over much correction, even though she have to encounter a more than ordinary obstinacy of temper; which, so far from being an ill symptom in children, might, by proper curbing and culture, be made to eventuate in manly firmness of character.

The strife of mastery, as I said before, begins in the cradle, and, if not properly decided and settled there, it will be full likely as years increase, to appear in frightful shapes. For the contentions of little children, first with their mothers, and afterwards with one another, are the germin, as it were of the contentions of grown men, which fill the earth with violence and blood.

Wherefore, nothing of human means would perhaps so much conduce to the future peace and happiness of mankind as to break children betimes of a domineering spirit, and to weave as it were into their tender minds, sentiments and habits of mutual deference, civility and benevolence. If it were generally made a main part of education, (as it assuredly ought to be, of christian education,) to learn children to curb their wills and to respect the rights and feelings of one another, an auspicious revolution in the affairs of human kind might be reasonably looked for:—a new and happy era might be expected when fighting and killing shall not, as always hitherto, be the main subject of the history of man;—when the fame and renown of men shall be no longer built on the destruction of their fellow beings.

From the Federal Republican.

SOUTH AMERICA.

Lord Castlereagh, in answer to some questions propounded by Mr. Brougham in the house of Commons, has broadly stated the fact, that the government of G. Britain was no party direct, or indirect, to the course of policy pursued by Spain towards her colonies, that the conduct pursued by G. B. was to observe a strict and impartial neutrality. This assertion, for the reasons which we stated yesterday, we look upon as equivalent to a declaration, that all the powers of Europe mean to observe a strict neutrality likewise; in other words that Spain must be reduced to the necessity of fighting her revolted colonies single handed. His lordship does indeed intimate, that the events on the river Plate, as they might involve interest of a most important nature, as they may affect the European dominions in Portugal, must be considered not as a mere S. American question; but as an European question. He did not think therefore, that he was at liberty to disclose further facts, even if they were in his power. From his lordship's reserve on the latter point, contrasted with the frankness and explicitness of his avowal in the other, it seems as if G. Britian contemplated making herself a party in the controversy between Portugal and her colonies. Another fact is stated by his lordship in confirmation of the construction that we have put upon his language, viz. that with Portugal the English government are bound by a treaty of alliance, that with regard to Spain, there is no such treaty. He further intimates his approbation of the conduct of lord Beresford, who is now in the service of his Portuguese majesty, and states his disapprobation, that any British officer should engage in the service of the insurgents. From hence it may fairly be concluded, that England looks with jealousy on this new revolution, and that she meditates taking a part in the controversy. His lordship observes with suitable gravity, that the controversy of Portugal and her colonies, is not a South American question, but an European question; by which we should be led to infer, that the controversy between Spain and her colonies was not an European question. Statesmen perfectly understand the art of splitting hairs. The fact is, that both of these controversies are European questions, involving considerations of the greatest possible magnitude, and the interest of the whole civilized world also.—These answers are a sort of political small change, which ministers endeavor to pay off to the opposite party, when they are not able to answer the whole of their demands.

The capital city of Buenos Ayres, the port of St. Mary, is situated on the western shore of the majestic La Plata river which gives its name to the present United Provinces. It is situated in lat. 34° 35' 26" meridional, and in long. 4° 19' west of lake St. Mary. It contains 17 churches, 7 parishes, 6 convents, 2 nunneries, 8 hospitals for the sick, 1 foundling hospital, 7 public squares, 1 college in which are taught latin, philosophy and theology, & 1 for orphans, 1 academy for the study of jurisprudence, 1 for drawing, one for mathematics, and one for medicine; there is one university for the study of practical medicine, 1 library, 3 printing offices, 1 theatre, and 1 amphitheatre for the exhibition of bull fights. The population including all sexes, white, black, indian and mixed, has been estimated at about 80,000. At some distance in the country, an horse may be purcased for one dollar; but in town the price varies from 4 to 5, 6, or 8, according to the quality of that animal. If a man hires a horse to ride at any distance, and the animal dies upon his hands, it is thought to be of no importance; but he must be careful to return the saddle and bridle. The country abounds in tigers, an animal which in its infancy plays with its tail, and shews all the sportive levity of a kitten, and when full grown, it is not equal to an Asiatic tiger, either in size, strength, or ferocity. The country likewise abounds in ostriches, not of the size of the African species, guinea pigs and armadillos, the latter of which is thought by the natives to be excellent eating, when roasted in the shell. The carnival in this place lasts for three days; during which time the women assemble on the roofs of the houses, and throw egg shells filled with fragrant water, on the passengers below. The men sally forth at this season to enjoy this bathing luxury from the hands of their mistresses. The women are reckoned by foreigners very beautiful, and their shapes are remarkably fine.

His Portuguese majesty, by interfering in the cause between Spain and her colonies, and not observing, as England has done, a neutrality, has furnished an opportunity for the same insurgent game to be played in his own dominions. The general of his Portuguese majesty, on his first petty conquest, ostentatiously published a proclamation, that it was not his majesty's design to interfere with foreign dominions; but that Monte Video lay so near his own, that he was bound by his royal solicitude for the safety of his own territories, to attempt that conquest. This was throwing down the gauntlet; his Portuguese majesty is now favored by the insurgents, with an excuse of a similar character. They may say that they mean no harm to the king of Portugal; but as the dominions of his majesty lay so near their own, they are wonderfully afraid, least the existence of a monarchy in the immediate vicinity of such republicans, should have a tendency to shake the security of the republican form of government.

HARVEST.

We are sorry to state, that the Wheat crop is perishing under the Hessian Fly. The accounts we have received of its ravages are alarming. A farmer from Powhatan assures us that ground from which he expected a few days ago to reap thirty bushels the acre, will not yield him five. Some estimate their loss at 2-3rds. others at more. The change has been a rapid one. But a few days ago, the wheat bore a most promising appearance; giving delight to the eye and gladness to the heart of the farmer. But the fly suddenly came, and the hopes of the harvest are vanishing. We have not had an opportunity of hearing from many quarters of the State: But in Powhatan, in Goochland, and in this neighborhood the ravages are very great. Report indeed says, that to the East of the Ridge the fly or rather the maggot, has appeared in great numbers.

We are informed that Wheat sown in rich land, and at an early season, will be strong enough to come to an head, but that sown late, and on a thin land, it must fall a sacrifice to the fly.

As this subject is one of the most interesting that can concern the state we solicit information from different quarters. Farmers are requested to inform us, in what parts the fly has appeared, and what is the degree of ravage which it is committing. We solicit information too on the general history of this enemy, so small in size, so great in degree. When is the egg laid? Where is it deposited? When does the egg breed the maggot? When does the maggot take wing? What state of the atmosphere is most favorable to these changes? What species of wheat is most liable to the fly? What sort of cultivation is best calculated to prevent or to destroy it? With such other general remarks as are not embraced in the range of these queries.

This visitation, if it be a general one, will indeed be most unfortunate. The last corn-crop was peculiarly short; most of our farmers looked to that of wheat as their great resource. If they could hold out till their wheat came in, they were content. In some of the counties, corn is now so scarce as to sell for ten dollars a barrel. If the wheat crop should fail then, the disappointment will be sorely felt.—We earnestly beg, then for information from all quarters where the fly appears.

The promise of fruit, strawberries excepted, is on the contrary very great. But fruit is more agreeable, than nutritive.

We must look out for more substantial stuffs for subsistence.

Farmers certainly know their own interests best, but a word from a friend may not be thrown away. We therefore earnestly advise them to plant, ere it be too late, an uncommonly large crop of corn. This crop to give relief against a possible failure of the Wheat. And we seize this opportunity to recommend great care in the selection of their seed. We all know that the crop of last autumn was very generally defective in its quality owining to the cold and lateness of the Season. Much of it was injured in the fields by frost: and much, being gathered in a soft state, took heat in the barn, and became musty. So that many were induced to leave it in their fields, rather than run the risk of housing and heating it. We but repeat the warning given in Canada & New-York, be cautious how you choose your seed. A citizen from Montgomery county Md. has thrown out a hint in the National Intelligencer on this subject, which may deserve your attention, "A gentleman living in Montgomery county, Maryland, some days ago, preparatory to planting his corn, took the precaution to put into a bank of warm manure a small quantity of his own seed corn, and another small quantity of corn he had gotten from a neighbour. His own corn, to all appearance was sound and perfect; but after lying a sufficient time, he found that not one grain of it would sprout, while the other sprouted very soon." He, therefore thinks it "the safest way for all persons to try the corn they have to plant or have already planted, by putting some of it into warm manure, which I am told will cause it to sprout in four and twenty hours."

Plant also all species of vegetables, which may be, more or less, a substitute for breadstuffs. Such as potatoes, black-eyed peas, &c. &c.

Another caution may be in time. The high price of tobacco, wheat, &c. had enabled most of you to pay off your debts and reduce our court-dockets. Perhaps the Virginia Farmers were freer from that Gorgon, debt, than they had been for thirty years. This at least was the case down to the last Autumn. The scarcity of the corn crop has put some of you back. But what is your resource now? If the wheat harvest is to be short, Old Richard would caution you to be saving and economical. Avoid debt. Do not be continually running to stores. But "wear out your old clothes 'till you can get new ones." Discard as many foreign goods, and manufacture as many domestic ones, as you can. Shun that terrible bane of personal independence, luxury. Retrench, not multiply your expences. Retrench your own expences, but do not stint the education and minds of your children. Let us bear the visitations on our fields with as much composure as we can, and not for every bad crop which we make, to become discontented with our lot, and fly the fields of Virginia and the tombs of our fathers.

Congressional Representation.

We have often wished, in reading the returns from our Sister States, to have in one view the entire representations of each State in the Congress of the United States, embracing those who have been elected, those who are changed, and the change in the point of political complexion.—We now do unto others as we wish they should do unto us. By the British schr. Mackerel, captain Gilbert, arrived here on Saturday, in the very short passage of 4 days from Bermuda, we have received from our attentive correspondent, papers of that island to the 26th ult. inclusive, and Antigua papers of recent dates. They contain nothing of the least importance, with the exception of the article respecting the Pilotage of Bermuda, which will be acceptable information to merchants interested immediately in the trade of that island. For the state of the markets, we refer our readers to the following.

Extract of a letter to the Editors of this paper, dated

Hamilton, (Bermuda,) April 28.

"We have within these five days, had an arrival from England, the Leander, 50 gun ship, in which came our new Admiral MILNE, but there is no news by him of any consequence, except the continued distress of the lower orders of the people, arising chiefly from the want of employ, produced by the general dearth of business and an over abundant population—but as Mr. Beach will send you some papers, to them I refer you. The produce of your country is still plenty with us, and arrivals from the states are very frequent; but as little if any, profit can be obtained at the present prices, I do not much calculate on a continuance of a sufficient supply; consequently a rise in all articles of provisions may be expected to take place in a few weeks."—Beacon.

An excellent grab!—Captain Appleby, from Honduras, informs, that a small schooner under Carthagenian colours, with one gun and about 35 men, (supposed to have been fitted out at N. Orleans) had captured off the Balize a Spanish feluche, laden with half a million of dollars, and indigo to nearly the same amount. The feluche was bound to Havanna, and it is supposed the privateer had got intelligence of her, while she was taking in her valuable cargo at Guatamala. To shew how finely the Spaniards manage their affairs of importance, capt. A. states, that the captain of a British vessel at the Balize had represented to the Spanish authorities the risk of sending so much treasure in one of their vessels, in consequence of the vigilance of the insurgent privateers, and offered his vessel to carry it, in which it would go safe; but the Spaniards told him they had no orders to ship it otherwise than in their own vessels, though they could not but have known there was a privateer cruizing off the Balize at the time!

VERY LATE FROM PERNAMBUCO

By the arrival of the brig Gen. Ward, capt. Whitehead, from Pernambuco, which place he left the 26th March, we learn that all was quiet at that place. The Patriots were preparing gun boats and putting the forts etc. in order, to defend themselves against an expected attack from the Portuguese ships of war. No news had been received from St. Salvador or Rio Janeiro. Parhia & Rio Grande had declared themselves independent. A proclamation had been issued by the authority at Pernambuco, forbidding the departure of any persons or vessels from that port without a passport.

ALEXANDRIA:

FRIDAY, MAY 9, 1817.

"LET WELL ENOUGH ALONE!"

I cannot call to mind a single apothegm ancient or modern, that contains more sound sense or useful instruction than the above pithy sentence uttered by Judge Peters, of Pennsylvania. It will be found pertinent to the business of life in every department, and is peculiarly applicable to that restless spirit of political innovation with which the frauds of ambitious men, working on the folly of the blank multitude, have so incessantly perplexed the world and disturbed the tranquility of the human race—and so long as multitudes are ignorant, simple, and susceptible of imposition, and there shall be knowing ones filled with ambition or avarice, will continue to disturb and distract mankind to the end of the world.

The rigorous despotisms which have overspread every portion of time, and every part of the world, with some few, and indeed very few exceptions, since the creation of the world, not only would have justified a perpetual hankering for innovation, but excite astonishment at the apathy and irresolution of so many ages slumbering in contentment under their servitude—An ardent, honest spirit can scarcely contemplate their history without execrating their baseness, or pitying their ignorance—but are they more deserving of censure than those strange contrasts to them who, enjoying the most full and perfect freedom that the circumstances of our nature can admit, are, or affect to be discontented, and, like the dog in the fable, who by snapping at the reflection of the piece of meat in the water dropt the substance out of his mouth and lost it, would put the good they have in possession, to hazard in a wild, selfish and vain experiment, to better their situation.

If there were any excess of vice or folly beyond the capability of man, I should say that it would be an attempt to tamper with that order of things under which the people of the United States at this moment enjoy without interruption, all the bounties of nature and all the fruits of their own labor. Would it not be extravagance beyond the ordinary bounds of that most sober degree of insanity which keeps men, just verging on the outside of the madhouse, if while our constitution is the unceasing theme of our own praise and exultation, the admiration of mankind, the envy of those nations who are hopeless of such happiness, and the object of imitation to all who have a government to choose and the competency to please themselves, there should yet be amongst us a small body of distempered ambition at this moment endeavoring to make itself the nucleus of a projected mass of innovation—to break down the mounds of the constitution—under pretence of zeal for the peoples' rights to destroy our representative democracy, and substitute in its place legislation by mob and clamor.—I do not positively affirm that such a body is now organized, because I have not sufficient evidence of its existence—but, that it is talked of with much particular circumstance is certain.—Things are not often circumstantially described, except by novelists and dramatic poets, without some grounds of fact—and the bare talking of it ought to have the effect of putting the people on their guard against it.

To stimulate the sluggish spirits who lie groaning under the night-mare of despotism in the old world, a frequent recurrence to the old modes of peculiar excitement may be necessary, and every mouth may blow VOX POPULI, from a trumpet a mile long, without harm—perhaps even with advantage; but in a state of things like ours, where the people possess the sovereign power, and do in fact exercise it, as far as they can by any possibility exercise it to any salutary effect, and where no attempt has ever been made, or even meditated to abridge their dominion, to be continually trumpeting and drumming in their ears, the miserable old, stale FETCH of VOX POPULI, so far from being an evidence of patriotism that claims the gratitude or respect of the nation, denotes views so selfish, ambitious and mischievous, as at least to alarm it to circumspection, and excite if not its severe censure, at the very least, its suspicion.

CURIO.

Baltimore, May 5.

LATEST FROM BORDEAUX.

The ship Hunter, it will be seen by the Philadelphia marine head, has arrived there from Bordeaux, which place she left 5th April, but we do not discover that any news is reported by her. In the Hunter were 17 cabin and 7 steerage passengers. This favorite ship has made four passages from Philadelphia to Bordeaux and back in 88 days—Flour at Bordeaux 12 a 13 dollars, brandy 720, cotton 215.

Since the above was in type, we have been favored with the following commercial advices, brought by the Hunter, dated Bordeaux, April 5, 1817.

Business is very dull with us at this moment. The demand for short staple cotton of superior qualities, which, during two or three weeks subsequent to our last advices, was rather animated at advanced prices, has latterly in a great degree subsided again, and we cannot at present quote Louisiana higher than from *f*195 to *f*220, and Uplands from *f*180 to *f*212,50 in entrepot. The inferior and middling sorts have been all along uniformly dull. Sea-Islands having materially declined in Paris, the seat of their principal consumption, have been sold with us as low as *f*305 to *f*300, duty paid, leaving a considerable loss to the shipper.

The prices given by the Regie in their late purchases of tobacco, are more liberal than was expected. In February they brought 2140 hhds. and in March 100 hhds paying for Virginias from *f*100 to *f*131,25, for Maryland *f*90 to *f*132,25 for Kentucky *f*105 to 115, and for Carolina *f*100 to 110, duty paid. It appears they intend purchasing a certain quantity monthly, and the prices will no doubt correspond with those of the neighboring markets. The quantity of American leaf required for the yearly supply of the royal manufactories will not, however, exceed from 5 to 6000 hhds. Small parcels of Kentucky and Carolina tobacco often meet with an advantageous sale here for the neighboring ports of Spain, where the large leaf is preferred. We lately sold for that destination 100 hhds. received from Charleston, at *f*102,75, which left a very handsome profit on the cost.

Although our price of French flour has been as high as 73*f* per bbl. there has been no encouragement to import that article from your quarter; it has declined of late again, and may now be quoted at 65*f*.

A few tierces of the first importation of new rice, brought 50*f*. Two subsequent arrivals of that article, and the declining state of our markets for bread stuffs in general, have lowered the price to 45*f*. a 40*f*. which will leave little or no profit to the shipper. Some sales of indigo & dye woods have occened, but at very low rates.

The rise of brandy in America augmented the pretensions of the holders here. This article is doubtless very scarce, but its dearness lessons the consumption, and the price, which has given way little of late, may now be quoted at 75*f*. to 76*f*. per 30 velts for armagnacs, on board. Should our vineyards present promising prospects in May, it is not improbable that the apprehensions of timid holders may occasion some further decline in prices, but we feel confident that they will be pushed up again in July and August by speculators, who are sensible that the whole stock on hand will be exhausted before January next, which is the earliest period for the coming of the new brandy. Old wines continue very scarce and high, and those of the last vintage are not fit for exportation.

It was expected that the exchange on England would undergo a material decline, in consequence of the London bankers taking so considerable a part of the French loan; but though at the early stage of the transaction a reduction did take place, it has since advanced again, and is now at *f*24 80.

Yesterday morning, death summoned to the grave, Miss MARY WESTON, late of Baltimore county, Maryland. The grief of domestic affection will be assuaged by the evidence she evinced, that her soul could resign the fascinations of life with composure, and with pleasure look forward beyond the curtain that was soon to drop between her and eternity.

She was a Christian and had hope: her hope was in her Saviour, and was resigned—to die in flesh and live in immortality.

The friends and acquaintance of the family are invited to attend her funeral this afternoon at four o'clock, from the residence of her brother on Cameron-street.

☞By Divine permission, the Rev. Mr. REIS, from Baltimore, will preach at the Baptist Meeting-House this evening, at early candle-light. May 9.

February 22 tf

JAMES KENNEDY & SON,

BOOKSELLERS, King street, have just received from LEE's Patent Medicine Store, No. 46 Maiden Lane, N York, a Fresh Supply of the following genuine Medicines.

For the prevention and cure of Bilious and Malignant Fevers, is recommended

Hahn's Anti-Bilious Pills.

THIS Medicine has been attended with a degree of success highly grateful to the inventor's feelings, in several parts of the West Indies, and the Southern & Middle States, particularly in N. York, Philadelphia, Baltimore, Petersburg, Richmond, Norfolk, Edenton, Wilmington, Charleston, and Savannah. The testimony of a number of persons at each of the above places can be adduced, who have reason to believe, that a timely use of this salutary remedy has, under Providence, preserved their lives, when in the most alarming circumstances.

Facts of this conclusive nature speak more in favour of a medicine than columns of pompous eulogy, founded on mere assertion.

It is not, indeed, presumptuously proposed as an infallible cure, but the inventor has every possible reason that can result from extensive experience, for believing that a dose of these Pills, taken once in every two weeks, during the prevalence of our bilious fevers, will prove an infallible preventative; and further, that in the earlier stages of those diseases, their use will very generally succeed in restoring health, and frequently in cases esteemed desperate, and beyond the power of common remedies.

The operation of these pills is perfectly mild, so as to be used with safety by persons in every situation, and of every age.

They are excellently adapted to cary off superfluous bile & prevent its morbid secretions—to restore & amend the appetite—to produce a free perspiration and thereby prevent colds which is so often of fatal consequences. A dose never fails to remove a cold if taken on its first appearance—they are celebrated for removing habitual costiveness—sickness at the stomach and severe head-ache—and ought to be taken by all persons on a change of climate.

They have been found remarkably effi eatious in preventing and curing disorders attendant on long voyages, and should be procured and carefully preserved for use by every seaman.

HAMILTON'S WORM DESTROYING LOZENGES.

Which have cured an immense number of persons of both sexes, of every age, and in every situation, of various dangerous complaints arising from worms, and from obstructions orfoulness in their stomach and bowels.

This medicine bears no analogy whatever to others of similar titles so commonly complained of, as operating with violence; on the contrary, a particular excellence of this remedy is its being suited to every age and perfectly in It contains nothing but what is constitution. nocent, and is also mild in its operation cannot injure the most delicate pregnant lady or the tenderest infant of a week old, should no worms exist in the body; but will, without pain or griping, cleanse the stomach and bowels, of whatever is foul or offensive, and thereby prevent the production of worms, and many fatal disorders. The lozenges are particularly efficacious n carrying off all gross humours and eruptions, feverish and bilious complaints, and are the safest and mildest purgative that can be used on any occasion

DESCRIPTION OF WORMS.

And the symptoms by which they are known:

Worms which infest the human body, are chiefly of four kinds, viz.—The Teres, or large round worm; the Ascarides, or small maw-worm; the Cucurbitina, or short, flat, white worm; and lastly, the Tænia, or tape-worm, so called from its resemblance to tape. This is often many yards long, and is full of joints. It is most hurtful and most difficult to remove.

Among the symptoms attending worms are—disagreeable breath, especially in the morning; bad and corrupted gums; itching in the nose, and about the seat; convulsions, epileptic fits, and sometimes privation of speech; starting and grinding of the teeth in sleep; irregular appetite, sometimes loathing food, and sometimes voracious; purging, with slimy & fœtid stools; vomitiug; large and hard belly; pains and sickness at the stomach; slow fever, with small and irregular pulse; a dry cough; excessive thirst; sometimes pale and unhealthy countenance, and sometimes the face hoated and flushed.

Persons afflicted with any of the above symptoms, should have immediate recourse to Hamilton's Worm Destroying Lozenges, which have been constantly attended with success, in all complaints similar to those above described.

A dose of this medicine given occasionally during the warm season, will effectually prevent 'the vomiting and purging of chint '—a dreadful disorder, which annually destroys the hands of the infa part of our citizens it is likewise the mildest and most certain emedy known, and has restered to health and strength a great number, when in an advanced stage of this fatal complaint. Particular and plain instructions are given for every part of the necessary treatment in such cases.

Children generally take this medicine with eagerness; having a pleasing appearance, and an agreeable taste.
